ONE STOP OVER THE LINE--A new freight siding in Bethel was one of 24 conditions set by the town Planning Board last year when it approved the site plan application for the Bethel Station project. The new siding was to replace the siding taken out on Railroad Street to make way for the project. The St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad is now at work on that new siding (left) -- but it is located in Gilead, not Bethel, Developer Heinie Merrill said he learned only last week that the railroad company and the Maine Department of Transportation had decided to locate the new siding approximately 1700 feet west of the Bethel town line. Earlier, preliminary plans called for locating the siding on MDOTowned land in West Bethel, Merrill said, but the land there is crossed by a telephone company easement, and the remaining parcel proved to be too narrow to accommodate the siding. Merrill said he plans to approach the Planning Board at its next meeting to ask that the language of the condition be walved or rewritten. The Gliead location, he argues, meets the spirit, if not the letter, of the condition. But Planning Board chairman Don Feeney said last week that having a siding in Bethel had been a public-hearing Issue, and the board could not ignore it simply because of decisions by the railroad company and MDOT.

Ski season is underway

The Sunday River Ski Resort opened Monday morning, with skiing and snowboarding for expert skiers and riders.

Snowmaking began Sunday night on the T-2 trail. First tracks were made at 7:17 a.m., according to Sunday River spokesman Skip King. Sugarloaf/USA also opened Monday, but later in the day, according to a spokesman for the Carrabassett Valley resort. Sunday River was also making snow Monday on the Sunday Punch and Right Stuff trails. Additional trails are expected to open shortly, King said. The resort plans to make snow around the clock, weather permitting, and expects the current window of snowmaking temperatures to permit it to make enough snow to remain open for the season, he said.

This year marks the second season in the past three Sunday River has opened in October.

Rebels fall

The Telstar High School field hockey team wound up on the short end of the stick Monday, losing 2-0 to Yarmouth in the Western Class C

Sarah Stebbins scored the Clipper's first goal midway through the first half, breaking in alone on Rebel goalie Jesse Wight. The opportunity came after a Telstar penalty corner. Yarmouth's Emily Skrok cleared the ball to midfield, where it got by Jana Mason, giving Stebbins her chance.

At halftime Telstar coach Gail Wight exhorted her squad to "dig deeper," but the Clippers never let up. After Jesse Wight made a save on another Stebbins shot, Kate Brown scored on the rebound.

Telstar went without a shot on goal in the second half.

Coach Wight said after the game that although the Rebels played well in the first half, "they weren't agressive enough in the circle to score."

As for the second half, "they were flat. They weren't used to Yarmouth's good stickwork -usually it's us doing that to the other team," she said.

Despite the loss, the Rebels still exceeded Wight's season goal of getting beyond the first round of the playoffs.

And they may be back.

"Most of them are coming back next year," said Wight. "They have a very bright future.

MDOT engineer taps the brakes on Mayville speed-limit reduction

Planning Board will review its request to selectmen

BY MICHAEL DANIELS

Lowering the Route 2 speed limit through Mayville could actually make the road more dangerous, a Maine Department of Transportation engineer told the Bethel Planning Board last week.

The town selectmen are currently considering a request from the Planning Board and local business owners to lower the speed limit in Mayville from 45 to 35 mph.

The change, which must be approved by MDOT, would apply to a the stretch of road running from the Androscoggin River bridge to just beyond the Irving station.

Both the Planning Board and the humess people said they were concerned about safety, especially as the area becomes more developed.

But engineer Billy Stowell fold

the Planning Board that lowering the limit would create two distinct groups of drivers, "those who observe the firmt and those who Whenever such a situation is created. Stowell said, there is a heightened chance of accidents.

"If you drop the limit 10 mph and it's not warranted, the accident rate goes up," he said.

Since "there's no great accident problem there now," Stowell said, a speed study would be necessary befure MDOT would approve lowering the limit. The speed of cars currently using the area, he said, "tells me that the public is voting that it wants a faster speed limit. And if the traveling public doesn't like the limit, they won't honor it."

From the state's point of view, changing the speed limit is a statistical issue. "If you ask me, 'Does somebody have to get killed out there?" The answer is yes."

WOODSTOCK CRASH SCENE--Four Auburn area teenagers died Friday evening on Route 26 in Woodstock, when their car struck a pulp truck pulling out from Route 232. Killed were Jason Phillips, 18, of West Poland, a senior at Edward Little High School; Maca Roddy, 18, of Auburn: Jessica Pellitier, 19, of Poland Spring and Jason Gagnon, 18, of Auburn. The driver of truck, Tauno Wilson, 60, of Hebron, Was uninjured. The four victims had been headed north on Route 26 for a weekend in Montreal. The accident is still being investigated, but according to preliminary reports the victims' 1987 Nissan, apparently being driven by Roddy, had just passed another vehicle when it collided with the pulp truck. The car struck the truck in the fuel tank, just behind the cab. Much of the front of the car was demolished by the impact, and the vehicle quickly began to burn. Jammed doors and spreading flames defeated repeated attempts by other motorists to free the teenagers in the rear seat. Alcohol is not believed to have been involved in the tragedy, but speed may have been a factor, according to Steven McCausland, spokesman for the Maine Department of Public Safety. Police are also investigating the possibility that the Nissan had been involved in a game of high-speed "leapfrog" just prior to the accident. Two weeks earlier an Oxford County Sheriff's cruiser was totaled in an accident at the same intersection, but there were no serious injuries in the earlier accident. An engineer for the Maine Department of Transportation said Monday that the intersection is not considered to be a high-accident location. Here, Bethel police officer (Photo by Michael Daniels) Darren Tripp assists with measurements at the accident scene.

"The way the season is winding down, we don't believe we can complete it on time," Mitchell said.
As a result, he said, work crews may have to leave that portion of the Sunday River Road intact for

Tuesday is Election Day

On Tuesday, Nov. 7 local voters will join their fellow citizens across the state in deciding the fate of four bond issues, two proposed amendments to the Maine Constitution, a citizens' inititive and referendum. In addition to the statewide items, SAD44 voters will decide if they want school budgets to go to referendum votes in each town; and Bethel voters will decide if they wish to establish a single airport authority to assist the selectmen with the management of the Col. Dyke Airport and the Airport Industrial Park.

Statewide questions are Indicated on the sample ballot reprinted below. Polling hours and locations for tocal towns are listed beneath the ballot. Opinion on the school budget referendum and so-called "gay-rights" inititives can be found in the letters to the editor beginning on this page and continuing on page four.

THE CLASH OF TWO GOOD IDEAS

To the Editor:

I wish I could find the current debate over the best method for determining the school district budget simple. Unfortunately, to me the question presents a dilemma. As in every dilemma, two presumably good ideas conflict. In this case, the good ideas are: a referendum encourages greater participation, and that participation leads to a more representative decision; and, a district-wide meeting encourages public discussion of the issues at hand leading to a more informed vote. It's difficult to fault either notion.

I have regularly supported the referendum as a means of gathering public opinion. I believe that the referendum encourages participation among those inclined to vote. At the same time, I find it important to attend public hearings in which many views are shared for the opportunity to understand points of view that might not have been available otherwise.

I attended the school district budget meeting this summer and found it an important public occasion. In that meeting, many people made their values clear for all to consider. Those values and priorities must be understood by all who consider school district policy and town government policy if their work is to be a reasonable reflection of the community's will. Those who work long hours at school district budget preparation, like those who work long hours on town affairs, need to hear and understand the values and priorities which emerge at these often charged events.

In watching recent town political activities, it has become clear to me that public hearings are generally poorly attended. Necessarily, they take a backseat to personal and family obligations. I understand the absence well. At the same time, I regret the loss of widespread opinion that the small attendance creates. I also regret the loss of opportunity for the voters to hear each other's opinions and to question those who have carefully studied an issue for clarification on important points relative to upcoming votes.

It appears to me that there is a third factor to be considered when trying to resolve the apparent dilemma caused by the two good ideas in conflict. That factor is the opportunity voters have to gain the essential information necessary for placing informed votes when the time for balloting comes

In an ideal democracy we would all be interested and informed in matters of public concern. We would all be encouraged to vote in a referendum. In today's heetic world, few of us have time to keep abreast of local political matters, so, we find our information and opinion where we can-often from enormously biased sources. We cast our votes in the forum available and have done our best at meeting our civic responsibility.

Recognizing the realities of time pressure and difficulty gaining objective information on important issues. I tayor the district-wide budget meeting over the local referendum. It seems that our chances of casting intermed votes are greater in the public forum with all its discussion than at the ballot box with all the homework that would be necessary to make the vote as informed.

YES ON THE SCHOOL BUDGET REFERENDUM

To the Editor:

The citizens of SAD44 and SAD43 will have a chance to vote on the school budgets on Nov. 7. We urge everyone to vote for this referendum question, as you are the taxpayer who for one reason or another do not or cannot attend the school budget meeting. This will give everyone the chance to study the school budget at an informational meeting and then go home to think if this budget is in our means to pay

A huge budget is being passed every year by the special interest groups and the big spenders who have no concern for the rest of us.

We want an excellent education for our young and will get it, but I don't think spending more and more money for programs that are not working is the way to accomplish this goal.

Voting yes to vote in your own towns will let the big spenders know they are being watched and the budget will be scrutinized before it is passed. We have got to put common sense and sanity back in our school system as well as our government, and voting yes in this referendum so we can all get the chance to vote in our own towns will be a step in the right I urge everyone to think about what has been going on and vote yes on voting in your home town.

Robert H Worthley

(Note: the letter above was one of four similar letters sent to The Citizen from the Rumford area.)

YOUR LAST REAL VOTE?

Have you smelled vanilla extract? Tasted it? Sometimes the danger is in getting what we want. Some folks who want a school-budget referendum think it'll be even easier to defeat spending for education, thereby saving taxes. Consider the possibility you may lose much more.

Will you give up your right to really participate? I couldn't believe it when I lost mine. Do you realize how many Maine towns have lost their town meetings (like Saco, where I now live)? Often the first freedom lost was the chance to help shape education with a district budget meeting in which you can have real debate. Final decisions are not made in a dark polling booth. Real decisions will still be made, but you won't be there if you give up a voting meeting where you can learn, can express yourself, make an alternate motion A yes-or-no referendum, dream machine of dictators staging a one-candidate election, is no way for a thinking citizen to influence either quality of efficiency in our schools. First, only the School Board would have the right to set the amount you vote on. Neither those who want to make further cuts, nor you, could move to raise a different amount. Can we learn from Gray, and not let good teachers leave for stable climates while repeated referendums paralyze the system before a budget was finally adopted in October (higher than defeated in a referendum)?

This isn't a matter of privacy. There's no shame in holding up your hand for a secret ballot after you've heard the good debate you people are capable of enjoying.

heard the good debate you people are capable of enjoying.

Just as students aren't sand running from a dump truck, school budgets are much more complex than deciding to fix up an old town truck and run it longer. If you vote to give up your right to participate, will those students, when adult, only be able to debate dump trucks? Part of growing is being trusted. Both you and they are capable of more than black-vs.-white thinking.

Two tough parts of understanding a school budget relate to state formulas. The way those votes are set up, you need to know how the prior vote fares to vote intelligently on the next line. Otherwise a desire to make cuts may shift burdens from federal and state funds to local share. The majority may not understand that in a booth, with neither a superintendent, a Steve Wight nor a Pat Carter to explain it. Second need to know: the state share doesn't move up every year. Skillful opponents exaggerate increases by pointing to total spending in years when state aid goes up, and to local share when it doesn't. In two years, changes can be made to look double what they are.

What we need is not the biggest herd, easily driven, but a majority of informed people not afraid to ask, to learn, and to suggest ... not afraid of the debate we call democracy. Have you the courage to have an open mind, to ask tough questions, to challenge, to speak your mind, to suggest efficiencies? If not, how about watching the debate, then voting informed? Perhaps most important, when one vote fails, will you be there to help shape the alternative?

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

Members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 2 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a presentation by Shireen Vincent based on a reading of the diaries of Maud Pratt Farwell, who once lived at the corner of Railroad and Elm Streets and was for many years a well-known Bethel figure. Anyone wishing to attend this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

A reception honoring the publica-tion of a collection of Nettie Maxim's photos will be held on Saturday, Nov. 11 at the Dr. Moses Mason House from 2 to 4 p.m. Editors Jack and Diane Barnes will be present at this event, sponsored by the Greenwood and Bethel Historical Societies and Arcadia Publishing of Dover, N.H. The reception is open to all and books will be available for purchase at that time.

New members are needed for the Bethel Historical Society's Building Committee, which is expected to have an expanded role as plans unfold for additional space for the Society. Any Society member who might be interested in serving on this committee should call the Society office at 824-2908 or Commilice Chairman Sumner Burgess at 824-2025.

Safer Families reorganizing

The Safer Families' hotline will be temporarily suspended beginning Nov. 1, until sometime early next year. Safer Families Program, a project operating for over four years to help victims of domestic violence in the towns of Andover, Hanover, Newry, West Bethel, Bethel, Gilead, Locke Mills, Bryant Pond, and West Paris, is reorganizing to improve its ability to serve these communities, according to board president Donna Richard, If a domestic violence emergency occurs, victims can get help by dialing 911 or contacting the local police department. During this time of reorganization, court advocates will remain active in the South Paris and Rumford District Courts and support groups will continue to meet as

High-speed chase ends in suicide

OXFORD—A high-speed chase involving several area police departments ended when the man being pursued shot himself in the head with a shotgun off the Coldwater Brook Road late Saturday night. Police were attempting to pull over Bric Bubier, 30, at around 11 p.m. A neighbor had recorded by Bubier, who were arread with a hand had reported he was threatened by Bubier, who was armed with a handgun, according to Maine Public Safety Department spokesman Stephen

Motels booked for ski meets

RUMFORD—With women's ski jumping and the 1996 Junior Cross Country Olympics coming up at Black Mountain, area motels and hotels are reporting they are booked for the events. About $250,000 is expected to be spent on food and lodging for the Junior Olympics, slated for March 3-9. Black Mountain also hosted the event in 1992. The ski area was selected over Waterville Valley this year. A United States Ski Association spokesman said Black Mountain will be the first site in the U.S. to hold a women's ski jumping international exhibition.

Poachers and trespassers targeted

AUGUSTA--State game wardens will be keeping a sharp eye out for trespassers during this hunting season. Wardens also will be aggressively enforcing anti-poaching laws, which the Legislature expanded this year to authorize the lifelong revocation of hunting licenses for some offenses. The no-nonsense enforcement policy comes as hunters feel pressure from groups pushing for more limits on the sport and increasing competition from other hunters. At the same time, more private land is being posted as off-limits to hunters.

Mills to produce wood pellets

HOULTON--Hoping to capitalize on the growing popularity of stoves that burn wood pellets, two Aroostook County mills will soon be producing tons of one-inch pellets. The raw materials -- wood chips and sawdust -- will come from Aroostook County and Canada. Pellet stoyes are in great demand in the Boston area, according to a spokesman for one of the companies.

Drought alleviated by storm

NEW HAMPSHIRE--Several inches of rain last week eased the drought situation in the Granite State. The National Weather Service said the Oct. 21 storm dumped between four and nine inches of rain in central New Hampshire in about seven hours. The rain "helps a lot of wetlands and brought stream flows back," said Ken Stern of the state Department of Environmental Services. He said groundwater levels are harder to change, but the storm was the third or fourth significant rainfall in as many weeks, and things are looking better.

New Hampshire healthiest state

New Hampshire has been named the healthiest state for the second consecutive year, according to an insurance company that ranks the health of populations in the 50 states. The survey employs 17 factors, from traffic deaths to smoking and heart disease. Vermont ranked sixth and Maine seventh. Maine improved from last year's 14th ranking. Mississippi was rated last. The study also found that Americans' health is improving, thanks to a decline in smoking, lower infant mortality and greater state support for health care for the poor. But it also warned a trend toward increased smoking among teenagers may erode those gains.

Cougar hunt to resume?

LOS ANGELES--In response to the increased frequency of encounters between people and cougars, California voters will decide next year whether to remove the animals' protected status and allow them to be hunted. Last year, two people were killed by cougars. They were the first fatal attacks since 1910. Cougar hunting was banned in 1972. Since then, the population has grown from about 2,400 to at least 6,000.

Slow economic growth in 2nd quarter

WASHINGTON--Maine was among seven states where personal in-come rose at least a half-percent above the national average in the second quarter of this year. Nationwide, personal income rose 0.8 percent, the smallest increase in nearly two years. Even in the fastest-growing states, the gains generally were well below increases in the first quarter. The Commerce Department said the Midwest and parts of the South were particularly hard hit, due to declining manufacturing payrolls and falling farm income.

Colorado ski areas get free advertising

DENVER--The snowstorm that blanketed Denver's Mile High stadium two Sundays ago caught the attention of ski enthusiasts. Many Colorado ski areas said they were deluged with phone calls from people watching the nationally televised game between the Broncos and Kansas City Chiefs. The cost-free advertising came at an opportune time for the ski areas, since many skiers start booking winter vacation plans this time of

Prospects for forest bill dim

WASHINGTON-Congress is considering a bill with tax incentives aimed at protecting Northeastern forests, but its prospects for passage are not good. The Family Forestland Preservation Tax Act would change inheritance taxes, which sometimes force landowners to sell property to developers or cut timber in order to pay their taxes. A spokesman for Sen. Judd Gregg, R-N.H. (who introduced the bill) said the Senate finance committee tentatively adopted only a provision calling for a capital gains tax reduction in the sale of timber harvested after 25 years. The four other provisions would: allow heirs to make post mortem conservation easements on forest lands; give tax breaks for leaving property wooded rather than clearing it; give a capital gains tax break if conservation easements are sold to public conservation agencies; eliminate the requirement that forest landowners work 100 hours per year in order to deduct management expenses.

Exercise, spirituality connected

WASHINGTON-Exercise and spirituality go hand in hand, and running can be a path toward a religious experience, according to researchers who have studied the connection. Exercise-induced mental and physiological changes, including the flood of body-made opiates that induces the "runner's high," can create a change in consciousness. The use of exercise to feel a blurring of the border between the self and that which is beyond the self is common in Eastern practices such as yoga, said Thomas P. Kasulis, a professor at Ohio State University. Yogis would understand this feeling of unity as the true state of existence, and think of the separation of the self from the rest of the world as an illusion, Exercise as a spiritual discipline is less common in the West. Mainstream Christianity considers the soul -- the spiritual self -- to be essentially distinct from the

Bethel Town Office

Since I have been in Bethel I have noticed one subject about which everyone seems to have an opinion - the airport (Col. Dyke Airfield). Some make no bones about expressing their dislike of the airport. Yet, we have a resource which is showing signs of growing pains. How best to develop this resource has been the subject of long hours both with the selectmen and the committee presently in place (Bethel Airport Advisory Committee) and more recently the Airport Industrial Park Committee.

Minimum Standards for commercial activities at the airport have been approved by the selectmen. The purpose of this document is, "to allow for the establishment and orderly development of a sound economic base upon which the Airport will thrive and experience a stable growth pattern." This past summer a lease was signed with Bethel Air Service, who are what is known as fixed base operators (FBO). Traffic is increasing at Col. Dyke Airfield and, realistically, it can be expected to continue to in-

What is the next step? On Nov. 7 Bethel voters will be asked to vote on an ordinance which will establish a Bethel Airport Authority. The Airport Authority will relieve the selectmen of the day-to-day operations of the facilities. The Airport Authority will submit its budget to the selectmen, but town funds will no longer be used to support the budget. The Airport Authority will run the airport in much the same manner that the sewer commissioners run the Sewer District.

The ordinance will provide that there will be five regular members and two associates, with a stipulation that at any one time only three of the seven members can be licensed pilots, aircraft owners, or associated with the aviation industry. Airport Authority members will be appointed by the selectmen and serve terms similar to other town committee members. Combining the two committees (Airport Advisory and Airport Industrial Park) will further assure financial stability. What will it cost the taxpayer? Many hours have been devoted to budgets, long-range projections and conversations with the accountants. The 1993 town appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of the industrial building has been reimbursed to the town. The airport and the industrial part as one entity will not only be able to grow and support itself, it will also be able to repay within five years the $15,000 appropriated in 1992 for operation and marketing. I urge you to approve this ordinance. Madeleine Henley

From the Bethel Police log:

Punctual, polite bear is still unwelcome caller

At 8:10 p.m. on October 23 an East Bethel resident reported that a bear keeps coming to her door around 8:30 every night, and has been beating on the door. Police contacted a game warden, who checked the residence and found there was in fact a bear knocking on the door. The warden advised he would try to take care of the problem.

Wednesday, October 25

At 8:15 p.m. an Oxford County Sheriff's deputy requested that police be on the lookout for any subject in possession of a large amount of change. The deputy was investigating a burglary on the North Songo Pond Road in which approximately $500 in assorted coins were taken. They included pure silver half-dollar coins (no copper strip around the rim), hexagonal Susan B. Anthony dollar coins and wheat pennies. The coins had been collected for over 20 years.

At 11:12 p.m. police found a blue Ford Escort station wagon parked on the Old Gore Road in Woodstock. It matched the description of a vehicle stolen from the Frozen Logger restaurant on Oct. 21. The registration confirmed it was the same vehicle. An Oxford County Sheriff's deputy was dispatched.

Saturday, Oct. 28

At 2 p.m. a Chandler Hill Road resident reported that a female at the Big Apple on Railroad Street appeared to be intoxicated. The police officer found she was having trouble walking inside the store. She was given a sobricty test, which she failed. The officer told her if she got in her vehicle to drive he would arrest her. She had three young children with her, Police called her boyfriend to pick her up.

Sunday, Oct. 29

At 1:10 a.m. police observed a car swerving back and forth in its lane on the Mayville Road. The officer stopped the vehicle and checked the condition of the driver. He had been talking to his girlfriend in the car. The driver failed to produce insurance information and was fined $110.

Monday, Oct. 30

At 11:29 p.m. a Bethel Park Apartments resident called to say someone was inside her apartment and she didn't know who it was. A Bethel police officer and a state trooper entered the residence, and found the subject in the living room. After a short struggle he was subdued and arrested. During transport to jail and at the jail the subject threatened police several times. The subject, Jonathan E. Dubey of Newry, was charged with burglary and criminal threatening.

TOO MUCH STEPHEN KING

To the Editor:

Letters

Workman's Comp? Whistle blowers? Someone's been reading too much Stephen King. Members of these or any other groups have nothing to fear from Question No. 1, for it deals only with "human rights" laws. These others are called "preference laws" and are not affected by No. 1.

However, they may have other reasons to worry. One of the first casualties of the Portland gay-rights ordinance was that the Boy Scouts lost their United Way funding, Within seven days of its passage, the School Board voted to include "sexual orientation" in the district's affirmative action policy, giving homosexuals preference for jobs and promotions. Almost immediately after passage, a "sex-ed" workshop was held for Deering High students featuring a lesbian couple who described their first sex together (quite graphically). While falsely implying that veterans' rights are in danger here, homosexuals are busy suing them in Boston and calling them "bigots." Here in Bethel, signs urging a yes vote are being forn down or stolen. Apparently First Amendment rights belong only to certain people. This is what voting no will get you!

What will voting yes do? It will prevent the granting of special rights and privileges to any group of people based solely on their behavior (just this week the state legislature cleared the way for a gay-rights bill). Future groups would have to meet the guidelines for disadvantaged minorities as already set forth by the U.S. Supreme Court. Homosexuals don't qualify under the guidelines, because they want protection for a behav-

The economy-tourism? Please! In the three years since Colorado passed Amendment 2, eliminating special rights for homosexuals, unemployment has fallen dramatically, tourism has risen dramatically (31 percent), ski resort profits have soared, and businesses are flocking to Colorado. Maybe, if we're lucky, we'll suffer in the same way here in Bethel.

Nina Mollicone advises, "... know exactly what you are voting for." Good advice. Stan Howe says, "Let's keep the state fiving up to its reputation 'the way life should be'". That's easy, -- Just vote yes on Nov. 7.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL, IMMORAL, DISCRIMINATORY

No special rights -- equal rights. Question No. 1 is not a bid for affirmative action or preference on the part of any group. It is, instead, an endeavor by a radical right group to limit the potential for any community within Maine to extend the present protected classifications beyond those presently listed. This effort is aimed at lesbians and gay men but could conceivably include such additions as political affiliation, military

To deny anyone these protections is unconstitutional, immoral and discriminatory. VOTE YES TO SAY NO TO WRONG

To the Editor:

There has been much controversy in the media over the Question No. 1, to be voted on in the coming elecfrom The main claim in the controversy is to vote yes is to vote for discrimination. I don't see this as a social

This amendment has been referred to as the so called "Gay Rights Bill." As I understand the word "gay" it refers to those who practice sodomy. Which is forthrightly and strongly forbidden in the Bible, the word of God. It simply says, "If a man also lie with mankind as a woman, both of them have committed an abomination," (Lev. 20:13) As I see it, this part of God's word is just as binding as: "Thou shalt not commit adultery." (Exedus 20:14), one of the ten commandments. Sodomy as well as adultery are both equally wrong. The problem is men want to change the word of God to adjust to their own preferences. This is pure humanism which teaches "That there are no absolutes, no right or wrong, that moral values are to be selfdetermined and situational. Do your own thing as long as it does not harm anybody else." To me the spiritual laws of God are just as immutable as His natural laws, the law of gravity for example. The eleven categories stated in the amendment on your ballot, such as race, color, sex, national origin, etc., are unchangeable, but one can change their conduct and lifestyle, especially when it is wrong. This amendment is not intended to be discriminatory but simply a means of protecting the natural rights of tating generations. Therefore, vote yes on the Question No. 1, for in voting yes you are saying no to wrong.

DON'T LEGITIMIZE THEIR HATRED AND BIGOTRY

I read the following in Friday's Sun-Journal: "The other kids used to tease nine-year old Steven Wilson for playing with Barbie dolls and girls. When other boys called him faggot and queer, he would become enraged,

"Earlier this month Steven's mother had to step in when she found her son choking a seven-year old neigh-

"A week later, Steven was found dead in a drainage ditch a mile from his home. He had been raped, beaten with a log and drowned.

"The 15-year old big brother of the boy Steven had choked was charged with the crime."

The debate over Question No. 1 seares me because it sounds more like these kids than it does like intelligent adults.

What message are we sending to our children? Listen to the debate over Question No. 1-and you can hear the hatred and bigotry. This referendum was prompted by a radical religious group (of which all Christians are not a part) under the politically correct title of Concerned Maine Families.

If they're so concerned about Maine families why are they not involved in drug and alcohol abuse? Domestic violence programs? Incest and child molestation (which, by the way, statistics prove is perpetrated mainly by straight members of the family)? These are issues that really affect Maine families.

Vote no on Question No. 1 and you allow the law to stand as written. No one has asked for special rights - another myth created to stir fear and hatred.

Voting no will end this childish debate and send a message to everyone to stop the hate.

Voting yes changes the law and opens the door to the high cost of overturning what already exists,

If you or someone you know has been discriminated against because of nationality, age, disability or whatever reason, then you already know how wrong and hurtful this can be.

Stop the hatred now and let's begin tackling the problems that really concern Maine families. Discrimination is wrong. If you believe this -- vote no on Question No. 1.

Rick Wiltzius

GOD HATES PERVERTS

To the Editor:

The real issue is not money, but morality. Do you want God's blessing on the State of Maine? God hated sexual perversion so much that He wiped Sodom and Gomorrah and surrounding towns from the face of the earth (Genesis 19:24,25). God has not changed His attitude toward what we call sodomy,

A yes vote on referendum Question No. 1 is a vote for morality. God's moral laws are just as absolute as His physical laws. We can break ourselves over them, but we can't break the laws themselves. Those who practice sodomy have all the rights and protection that the rest of us have in Maine. Please do not vote to open the deor to special rights. Vote yes on Question No. 1.

Linwood Hanson Bryant Pond

NO TO DISCRIMINATION

To the Editor:

Gov. King and senators Snow and Cohen, plus many of our state officials, businesses and religious groups have joined together in support of a no vote on Question No. 1. Supporters of this misleading, flawed and confusing referendum seek to deprive citizens of their rights, to discriminate against those to whom they ob-

The radical right is attempting to divide Mainers into "Us" and "Them." It is asking the electorate to support a stand against those that the radical right has deemed unworthy of protection. Somehow Ms. Crosby and her Concerned Maine Family group has lost sight of the majesty of this country and the guarantee of the U.S. Constitution. Very much like other groups in other parts of the world the radical right is waging a crusade against the civic state, against the law of the land -- which the Constitution of the United States

The rule of law, fairness for our neighbors and a willingness to work together for the common good have driven this state and nation to greatness. As a state and country we must never lose touch with compassion for others. We must continue to allow no one to be restricted. We must not lose what is unique in our history of country -- that our faith that freedom of conscience leads to the greatest good. This country represents freedom. No group has the right to discriminate against another. Question No. 1 seeks to legalize discrimination against gays and lesbians now, against un-named groups later.

I urge all of your readers to vote no On Question No. I.

CONGRATULATIONS, TMS SOCCER TEAM

To the boys and girls of the Telstar Middle School Soccer Team -- Congratulational As a team you entered the playoffs the underdog, you took that opportunity and brought the level of play to a point where you were now the team to beat. You did it with hard work, consistency and most of all, good sportsmanship.

In the final game against Buckfield, you played to a 0-0 double overtime tie — the result, co-champions of your division. As parents watching, you prided us with your skills and efforts in knowing what you had to do to get where you wanted to go.

To Charlie Raymond, what else can we say. For three years in a row, you have brought these young individuals to the final game in playoffs. As a coach, you have given 100 percent to these young people. I have watched both of my boys play for you, and on many occasions heard them say what a nice guy you are. To many of these young players you will be a difference in their lives, especially when they continue to play organized sports. I know I can speak for all of the parents when I say, thanks, Charlie Raymond, Thanks for a great season, thanks for a great feam, and most of all, thanks for making a difference,

> John Chency, For all the team parents

COMBATING HEAD LICE

To the Editor:

It has come to our attention that there have been numerous cases of head lice in the area. We feel it may be helpful to share some facts and clear up some misconceptions on this subject. Head lice are animal parasites and are extremely contagious. Lice do not leap. The disease is transmitted by contact with the infected person or article (bats, combs, brushes, or other clothing).

Treatment shampoo is available at any pharmacy, but must be used properly, and often repeatedly. The shampoo will kill live insects but the eggs need to be removed with the comb that comes in the kit. The eggs (nits) cannot be blown or brushed off. They wrap around the hair shaft and must be removed. Clothing and bedding must be washed with hot water and dried with dryer heat (not line or air dried). Carpets and upholstery (furniture and ear) can be steam cleaned or sprayed with a disinfectant or a flea spray that says it will kill eggs. Stuffed animals or non-washable clothing must be put in a plastic bag and tied tightly for two weeks. Combs and brushes can be treated with the shampoo or strong disinfectant.

Although we are not able to help you in the salon, we'll be glad to answer further questions as can your lo-

AMBULANCE LICENSING LAW EFFECTIVE JAN. 1, 1971

Ambulance personnel and businesses are reminded that the Ambulance Licensing Law, passed by the 104th legislature, goes into effect Jan. 1, 1971. Farnham Folsom, Acting Director of the State Emergency Medical Services Division said this week that, at that time, all vehicles and services must be licensed. He added that at least one person on an ambulance call must hold a state ambulance attendant license.

Folsom said that the various licensing forms have been sent by the Division to all organizations and individuals on its mailing list. Included with the forms are the rules and regulations established in the new law and equipment requirements for operating an ambulance service.

He added that any organization or person who has not received the forms, but would like to, should write or call the Division of Emergency Medical Services. Department of Health and Welfare, in Augusta.

The pace is much quicker, the answers, or questions, whichever you call them, are rattled off in somewhat frantic tones, and I quickly noticed a problem that only you can solve, dear Mery of the goldentones- of- the- forties. With Alex and the contestants rushing from one answer to the next, from one category to the next, it was hard for Mother to hear the answers/questions all the time. As she watched and tried to keep up, she got more and more frustrated, because she had missed the answers gories, so that she can continue to

I heard her arrive at the solution as I was formulating it in my own head...she said, "I wish that they would print the answer on the screen so that at least I'd know what it was, in case I can't hear it"...How simple! How easy for your technology! Why

On the night of our release from duty, after many days and nights of tending and caring for our aged but alert mother, my sisters and I and some of the family went to a local, crowded restaurant to dine and to toast Muddy's return to relative ambulation. We were thrust into the downstairs bar and grill; there were televisions suspended above our heads: Jeopardy was on, but the sound was off. And as each of us was distracted in turn by a question or two as they flashed around us, we all realized how elever Muddy's idea was. We experienced the frustration of not hearing the answers and of having to figure if we were right or not...In chorus we decided Building, that the answer should be flashed The Newry Recreation Comthat the answer should be flashed

My best friend was in an automobile accident a year ago. and she still won't drive on the turnpike where it happened. In fact, she has gotten to the point where she won't drive on turnpikes at all. When I ask her about her behavior, she says it's no big deal. Is this a normal reaction? I'm worried that she may need some kind of help.

It is certainly normal for a person to go through a period of adjustment before revisiting a situation in which she has had a traumatic experience. However, while it is difficult to identify an appropriate period of recovery, when the person's reaction involves an extreme physical or emotional response, or interferes with daily living, there may be cause for concern.

When fear or anxiety related to a situation becomes unreasonable and overwhelming, the condition is called a phobia. It can manifest itself physically, with such symptoms as sweating, nausea or chest pain, and emotionally, with the person becoming so anxious that he or she avoids the situation causing the anxiety, at all costs. Phobias are distinguished from normal fears in that a phobia can dramatically reduce a person's ability to function normally and can severely affect that person's quality of life. For the phobic patient, just thinking about the source of anxiety can prompt a panicked response. A person's phobia can be compounded if he or she becomes afraid of the reaction the phobia causes -- such as fainting, panicking or losing emotional control -- and therefore avoids the situation at all costs.

Many people are embarrassed by their phobias, and therefore try to hide them. "Such people are often afraid to admit that they feel weak," says David Leiman, M.D., an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at Boston University School of Medicine, Unfortunately, the longer a person puts off getting to leave home. help with his or her phobia, the more it becomes a part of that person's life, and the more difficult it is to treat, Leiman says.

A phobia is a type of anxiety dis-

There are three different types of phobias:

Specific Phobia: This type of phobia is associated with a particular object or situation, and can usually be traced back to a specific incident. For example, someone who has a phobia associated with being near a horse may have been thrown from one as a child. Likewise, someone who, like your friend, was in a car accident, may be afraid to drive in the conditions in which the accident occurred.

Social Phobia: People suffering from social phobia become abnormally uncomfortable in certain social situations, out of fear that they will humiliate or embarrass themselves or be scrutinized or rejected by others. While it is normal to feel nervous before having a serious discussion with a boss or making a speech, the person with: social phobia may become over-; whelmed by the fear and be unable to proceed. People with social phobias are not abnormally uncomfortable in every social situa-

Agoraphobia: This type of phobia. is more complicated than specific and social phobia, in that it involves one rooted fear that can develop in many different circumstances.

Agoraphobia is the fear of being in a situation that is difficult to escape physically, such as being in a crowd or crossing a bridge. It causes panic attacks, which are intense physical manifestations of fear that can last as long as 10 minutes. A person having a panic attack may feel the crushing chest pain associated with heart attack and believe he is going to die. Agoraphobia can progress to the stage where the person is afraid

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

On Oct. 19, Jackson-Silver American Legion Post and Unit held their annual dinner to honor Telstar High School seniors who were delegates to Boys State and Girls State last June. As the names imply, the boys at Maine Maritime Academy and the girls at Husson College spend a week learning how government works by doing. They run for town, county and state offices in at least two parties, hold caucuses, town meetings, mock courts, establish platforms and enact laws. All express a few things in common: they learned a lot and didn't realize how complicated, frustrating but interesting the political process could be. Sponsored by Jackson-Silver Post were: Heath Poland, Josh Adams, Adam Newell and Benjamin Fogg. The Auxiliary sponsored Dawn Waisanen and Becky Chandler. Also attending was M.J. Learned, who was sponsored by the Oxford County Council Auxiliary, but whose expenses were paid by the town of Andover, which pays for one girl each year.

At the meeting which followed, the Unit voted contributions to Opportunity Farm for Boys, Togus Christmas Gift Shops, one to the new Veterans Home in South Paris and one for the other Veterans Homes in

On Nov. 1 the Auxiliary will begin taking orders for light bulbs for the three Christmas trees which they light each year on the grounds of the Legion Hall. These lights may be purchased for $2 each in honor of, or memory of, a veteran. One tree is for the family members of veterans. Income from this project is used for Christmas gifts for veterans at Ledgeview Nursing Home and for the Christmas Gift Shops.

Special Olympics will benefit from the eard and table game party to be held Nov. 5 at 1 p.m. at the Legion Hall. For a $5 donation to Special Olympics one can enjoy pie and beverage, followed by an afternoon of playing eards or other games with friends and a good chance to win one of he many door prizes donated by area businesses.

The Legion Post is arranging a special program for Veterans Day on Nov. 11 at 9 a.m. The parade for that day has been rained out so many times in the past that if was decided to not plan for one this year. There will be music by the Mahoosuc Music Makers and some speakers. State Rep, Al Barth (R-Bethel) will be the featured speaker. The public is invited to attend and there will no doubt be something for refreshments.

Nov. 14 is the date for another of the Auxiliary's Musical Suppers. The main dish will be chicken pie. Children under 12 pay $2.50 and others $5. for a plentiful meal, door prizes, entertainment and dancing to the Richard Felt band.

REGIONAL COUNCIL DINNER-Over 90 people gathered in Locke Mills recently at a Red Ribbon Week celebration to honor the volunteers and accomplishments of the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism, Inc. (WRCA) and the Western Maine Community Partnership's four sites (greater Bethel, Farmington, Oxford Hills, and Rumford areas). Outstanding Corporate Service awards were presented to the Bethel Area Health Center in Bethel. Approximately $810,000 in new and expanded substance abuse prevention and treatment services will be brought to the greater Bethel area due to a consortium grant generated cooperatively by the Bethel Area Health Center, Stephens Memorial Hospital, and WRCA. From this grant, nearly $270,000 in preventive services over a three-year period will be provided to adults and youths. Wende Gray, president of the Bethel Area Health Center's board of trustees, accepted the award on behalf of BAHC. The four individual partnerships made special presentations to site volunteers. Brian Stowell, WRCA's prevention specialist for the greater Bethel area, presented a Volunteer of the Year award to Gail Wight, the Rod Abbott Follow-Through award to Sally Hannon, and a Mover and Shaker award to Sue Howe in appreciation for all they do to create a healthy community. Stowell also served as Master of Ceremonies for this Red Albbon Week cross-site celebration. Shown here are (from left) Brian Stowell, prevention specialist, Regional Partnership; Joe Perham, Maine humorist; Kenneth McAuliffe, president, W.R.C.A.; Bob Rice is vice president and general manager, WMTW, Ch. 8, Lewiston, and Mrs. Rice.

LISA MCMAHON of the Virgin Islands and Boston University is at the Bethel Area Health Center for a six-week fellowship rotation to learn about rural medicine. She said she's seen a variety of patients so far. "We had someone in who had a cow step on their foot, We've also had people hiking, climbing, and getting into trees," she said. McMahon hopes eventually to go into family practice. She became interested in medicine at age 9, after saving her grandmother's life using the Heimlich maneuver. McMahon is shown here with physician's assistant Michael Poirier.

Women's ensemble at Gould

Libana, a Boston area women's ensemble, will celebrate its 15th season with a concert at Gould Academy on Thursday, Nov. 9. The 7:30 p.m. performance in Bingham Auditorium, part of Gould's Performing Arts Series, is open to the public.

Libana performances open windows into diverse, rarely heard, women's musical expressions from around the world. Their music ranges from Balkan harmonies to the rooted pulses of Latin American rhythms, from beautiful sounds of Slav music from Hungary to a ritual exorcism dance with percussion from Egypt -- all woven into a collage of shifting colors and rhythms.

Libana's recorded music is available nationwide, in Canada and in the British Isles. Their newest release, "Borderland," (Shanachie records, 1993) traverses border, continents and hemispheres with a repertoire of contemporary and traditional World Folk Music. Their 1990 Ladyslipper release, "Fire Within," is an eclectic collection of rounds, chants, and songs from around the world. "Fire Within" and "A Circle is Cast" (Libana, 1986) are the top two best-selling recordings of Ladyslipper, the largest women's music distributor in the United States. Libana's music has also been featured on NPR's Weekend Edition of "All Things Considered," and throughout Canada on the Canadian Broadcasting Company, Founded in 1979 by director Susan Robbins, Libana is an eight-woman ensemble that has toured extensively throughout North America. They opened this season performing at the Britt Festival in Medford, Ore., and at the Philadelphia Folk Festival.

Tickets for the Nov. 9 performance are $5 for adults and $3 for students, and are available at the door. For further information, please contact Vicki Rackliffe at 824-3575.

There were many visitors and the ladies filled the offices. Peggy took meeting very much.

I spent a lot of the day yesterday harvesting, washing and cooking what kale we wanted to put into the freezer. We had hoped for a good freeze to make it all the better, but since the deer were getting at some of it we decided that if we wanted any of it we'd better be harvesting it instead of waiting for a freeze. I removed the wire that we had covering part of it and now the deer are welcome to what remains. We do wish they'd come for it in the daytime.

Saturday afternoon, Nancy Dewing from Greenwood came down and helped Peggy cover a lot of cans to be used when the ladies have their Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale on Nov. 11. These cans will be used in the Cookie Walk, Peggy rested some in the

> It has been a real nice day (Sunday) and we've been on the go again. This afternoon we attended the funeral for Maynard Cushman at the Andrew's Funeral Home. Maynard was certainly well remembered, and I have never seen so many people at a funeral before. There was only standing room when we got there and many came after us. We wish to extend our sympathy to the members of his family. It is difficult to understand why one so young with such a promising future is taken from our midst, but there is reason for all that happens.

After the funeral, we attended the 50th wedding anniversary for Carl and Lettie Brooks at West Paris Grange Hall. Bertha Benoit hosted the anniversary party and was the one to make and decorate the lovely anniversary cake. HANDBELL RINGING

Two workshops will be held at the West Parish Congregational Church for people who wish to try handbell ringing. These sessions are designed for those who may not have musical experience, and who don't yet read music. Beginners are very welcome. The workshops will be Sunday. Nov. 5 and Sunday. Nov. 12. Each will begin at 2 p.m., and last about one hour.

Mr. & Mrs. Craig Aube Carrie Olson and Craig Aube were united in marriage on Sept. 2 in Carrie Olson and Craig Aube were united in marriage on Sept. 2 in an outside ceremony, arriving in horse and carriage, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Kenneth Gurschick officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Linda and Neil Olson of Bethel. Parents of the bridegroom are Nancy and Gary Aube of Berlin, N.H.

The bride was escorted to the arbor by her father, carrying a cascade bouquet of dried roses and assorted flowers.

Jill Olson was maid of honor for her sister, Bridesmaids were Erica McPhee, Kristen Cushman and Michelle Oliver, Keith Roberge served as best man for the groom. Ushering were Adam McPhee, friend of the groom, and Kevin and Kurt Aube, brothers of the groom.

The bride and groom had two bridal hostesses. Wendy Faulkingham and Tara Boldue. There were three readings at the ceremony performed by Jill Olson, Joan Sullivan and Tuesday Paine.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Summit Hotel in Newry. After a trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica, the couple are residing in their new home in Portland.

The bride received a bachelor of arts and science degree in communication from U.S.M. in 1994. She is currently employed by UNUM of Portland. The bridegroom is a master plumber and is self-employed.

Obituaries

MADELEINE H. GIBBS

Madeleine H. Gibbs of Bethel, widow of Guy E. Gibbs, passed away at her home on Oct. 30, 1995, in her 74th year. She was born in Blue Hill, daughter of Edward J. and Lydia Payronel Hinckley.

Mrs. Gibbs was a graduate of George Stephens Academy in Blue Hill and Colby College in Water-ville. She also attended Columbia University and the University of Vermont.

She was a teacher at Rangeley High School and Gould Academy, and was librarian at Telstar Regional High School, from which she retired in 1983.

She was an opera-trained mezzosoprano and was choir director at several churches.

She was a past member of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, and a past member of the board of trustees of the Bethel Public Library.

She is survived by two sons: Thomas and Daniel, both of Bethel; three grandchildren; two sisters: Edith Turner of Attleboro, Mass., and Lillian Worcester of Ellsworth; and several nieces and nephews and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Friday, Nov. 3, at the Bethel Alliance Church. There will be no visiting hours. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Androscoggin Home Health Services.

Card of Thanks

How does one say "Thank You" for such a special 50th Anniversary Party as was given to us by our relatives and friends? Richard Felt and his musicians gave up a Sunday afternoon to entertain. The Anniversary cake made by Bertha Benoît was beautiful and delicious. So just a great big THANK YOU for the eards, gifts, flowers and everything.

SIGN COMMITTEE SEEKING INTERESTED MEMBERS

The Bethel Planning Board is seeking interested persons who would be willing to serve with the present Sign Ordinance Committee as they deliberate the regulation of the blue state directional signs.

The Sign Ordinance Committee at its last meeting requested additional membership, especially from the business community, as it continues to discuss the best solution to protect business and avoid the sign litter on routes 26, 5, and 2.

Although the blue directional signs are regulated by the state at this time it is possible for the town to take control over these signs. Anyone interested in either serving or attending the meetings should call the Town Office at 824-2669.
